Join us as John takes us through the history and development of nuclear regulations

With over 45 years of experience in nuclear safety and regulatory oversight, John D. Kinneman, CHP, has led assessment teams that reviewed safety and regulatory issues at NRC licensees and Agreement States. Currently, he works as a contractor to the U.S. Nuclear Regulatory Commission (NRC), focusing on improving regulatory effectiveness in developing countries.

Mr. Kinneman retired from government service in 2013 after serving as Director of the NRC Division of Fuel Facility Safety and Safeguards and as both Deputy Director and Director of the Region I Division of Nuclear Materials Safety. Additionally, he served as Radiation Safety Officer for the NRC's Region I Office. He holds a Bachelor of Arts degree in Biochemistry from Rutgers University and also did graduate study in Health Physics there. He has been certified by the American Board of Health Physics since 1983 and served as the chair of the Part II Panel for the 2022 examination.

Internationally, Mr. Kinneman has been instrumental in regulatory development efforts. He led International Regulatory Review Service (IRRS) Missions and follow-ups for Vietnam and has remained active in supporting NRC and IAEA initiatives. From 2014 to 2023, he worked with AdSTM, Inc. to manage the NRC Radiation Sources Regulatory Partnership (RSRP), supporting regulatory capacity-building in Africa and the Middle East. He continues to support the program.
